

FLIP - Functional Languages Israeli

Programmers Conference - Call for Sponsors

Overview

FLIP is the first Israeli conference on functional programming languages, that will be held on July 23rd, 2018 at the Academic College of Tel-Aviv-Yafo, with the assistance of Hamakor NPO.

The conference will be a single day, two-tracks celebration of functional programming language such as Scala, Haskell, Clojure, Elm, Lisp and more, that will bring together industry leaders, researchers and enthusiasts.

We are a diverse team of volunteers working to promote functional programming in Israel, coming from various backgrounds. We have the accumulate experience of organizing dozens of community events at various scales.

Why Should I Sponsor FLIP

FLIP is a rare opportunity for sponsors to reach developers who are familiar with the languages and practices, while promoting the field as a whole and helping to share knowledge and experience between different programming communities.

In addition, the conference is a great place for sponsors to position themselves as industry leaders who use state of the art technologies, as most of today's leading technologies had originated from functional programming.
